

ANOTHER DOZEN IN TAFT COLUMN

Committee Decides Indiana Contests Against Roosevelt.

TOTAL GAIN OF EIGHTY-FOUR

With the 201 Instructed and Uncontested Delegates Taft Now Has on the Temporary Roll of the Convention 285, Not Counting Other Contests Which May Be Decided in His Favor.

Chicago, June 11.—The work of the Republican national committee added twelve more delegates to the catalogue of the Taft strength on the temporary roll of the Republican national convention.

The much discussed Indiana contests came before the committee and all were decided in Taft's favor.

With the seventy-two delegates procured in the Southern contests decided last week in the Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Georgia cases the gains make a total of eighty-four delegates added to the Taft forces by the work of the national committee. With the 201 instructed and uncontested delegates accredited to him they bring his total on the temporary roll up to 285, not counting other contests likely to be decided for him.

A large proportion of the contested seats among the 170 cases still to be passed on by the committee represents delegates instructed for Taft. The precise number is the subject of much dispute, nor can it be stated how many of these contests Taft will win.

The cases decided were those of the Indiana delegation at large, four in number, headed by Colonel Harry S. New, chairman of the convention committee of arrangements, and including former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, and the district delegation of two each from the First, Third and Thirteenth districts.

The contest in the Fourth district was withdrawn and the committee confirmed the two sitting (Taft) delegates.

The real fight in committee came, not on the contest over the delegates at large, where it had been expected the committee was unanimous in giving them to Taft, but over the seating of two Taft delegates from the Thirteenth, or South Bend, district.

Attempts of the Roosevelt attorneys to introduce certain affidavits, declared by them to bear the signatures of a majority of the delegates to the district convention at South Bend, at which the Taft delegates were chosen, precipitated the only sensational interchange and occasioned a sudden reversal of the committee's vote, which was not explained to the satisfaction of the Roosevelt men.

Borah Taunts Taft Men.

Senator Borah taunted the Taft men about it, telling them they changed front because they were scared.

"The worst scared lot of men I ever saw," he said. "What has happened? Whom have you consulted? What has come over you? Whence came this revelation?" he demanded.

The Taft men denied that they were scared or that any special light had been thrown upon them; they insisted that their first vote, against admitting the affidavits, was because of their desire not to delay the hearings by the necessity of giving the Taft side an opportunity to answer them or to create a precedent which would be embarrassing in their later cases. Their reversal of the vote was coupled with a specific declaration that it was not to be regarded as a precedent. In this form the Roosevelt men all voted against it.

The committee heard the affidavits with verbal testimony in contravention of their allegations and then voted to seat the Taft delegates. The vote, 26 to 14, represents what has been the lineup between the factions ever since the committee came together.

This was not the first battle, however. Before the Indiana cases were taken up the committee came near to a turbulent scene of factional bitterness. A motion by Senator Crane of Massachusetts to postpone until Wednesday the case of the Fourth district of California, in accordance with the request of former Senator Dick, the Taft contest leader, met the opposition of the Roosevelt forces. The case already had been called and the attorneys and contestants were in their places at the tables when this question arose. Mr. Dick argued that a similar delay had been granted last week in the California case at the request of the Roosevelt people and he thought he was entitled to the courtesy.

In the roll call on the California postponement the lineup was 38 to 13; the Taft panel on each side being substantially the same as in the other divisions on national lines.

In connection with the putting over of the contest in the Fourth California district the committee formally ordered all uncontested delegates to be placed on the temporary roll of the national convention. This action was said to be only a matter of form, as the names would go on the roll as a matter of course and any name entered on the roll can be stricken off by order of the committee.

BRUTAL MURDER STILL UNSOLVED

Iowa Family of Six and Two Guests Slain With Axe.

OFFICIALS USE BLOODHOUNDS

Police So Far Unable to Find Trace of Slayer or Clue to His Identity, Although It Is Apparent He Had a Key to the Victims' Home, as All Doors and Windows Were Found Locked.

Villisca, Ia., June 11.—Thirty hours after the murder of the entire family of Joseph B. Moore and two young women guests, eight in all, which occurred Sunday night, the authorities have been unable to procure a single trace of the slayer and have little or no clue to his identity. It is apparent he had a key to a door to the Moore home, as all doors and windows were found locked.

A revised list of the victims follows: Joseph B. Moore, Mrs. Joseph B. Moore, Herman Moore, aged eleven; Katherine Moore, aged nine; Boyd Moore, aged seven; Paul Moore, aged six. The last four were children of Mr. and Mrs. Moore. Lena Stillings, aged fifteen; Ina Stillings, aged nine. The Misses Stillings were guests at the Moore home.

The local militia company patrolled the section of the city near the Moore home until bloodhounds were put on the trail.

Within ten minutes the dogs found a scent which took them over a circuitous route to the edge of the town and thence to the banks of the Nodaway river.

Hounds Enter Deep Woods. Entering a deep woods along the river the hounds led their keepers over several miles of rough timberland in the bottoms. Because a company of militia had kept the crowds from going within several hundred feet of the Moore home it was hoped the hounds might be able to accomplish much, as the ground had not been trodden over.

After an hour the hounds returned to the river, where those following the dogs found fresh footprints in the soft muddy bank leading to the river. Those following the trail took the hounds across the river, but were unable to find any trace of the fugitive on the other side.

The first knowledge of the crime was procured when a clerk in the implement house of Mr. Moore went to the Moore home to ascertain the cause of Mr. Moore's delay in reaching his place of business. Finding the house locked, the window shades all down and no one about he notified the neighbors and with assistance forced an entrance to the house.

The victims, with one exception, were in their beds in natural positions. A bloody axe, obviously the implement used by the slayer, was found in an upstairs room.

Murderer Acted Swiftly. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were in one bed, the clothing of which was not the least disturbed. In another bed were two of the boys. The daughter occupied a third bed and the youngest boy was alone in a smaller bed. In neither instance was the bedding of the children disarranged.

The Misses Stillings occupied a room in another part of the house. One of the girl's arms bears a wound and was in such a position as to indicate she had awakened before the attack and that there was a short struggle.

Blood stains, including finger prints of the murderer, are the only clues the officers have to work upon. Stains were found in the house. A feature of the tragedy, which indicates that possibly the murderer left the house quickly, was the finding of a lighted lamp on the floor of the Moore bedroom.

On a puzzling feature of the crime, which serves to heighten the mystery surrounding it, is the apparent deliberation of the murder. All indications are that he entered the house by the front door with a key and that he left by the same way and locked the door behind him. Dust upon the sills of the two windows left unlocked shows he did not enter that way.

Orders Private Car Probe. Washington, June 11.—The interstate commerce commission ordered an investigation of complaints that allowances paid by railroads for the use of privately owned cars and the regulations governing the handling of such cars were unreasonable, discriminatory and unlawful. All railroads in the United States are made respondents in the proceedings, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

Ratifies Proposed Amendment. St. Paul, June 11.—The state senate ratified the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators. The vote was unanimous. The house took similar action last week and the state is now on record for the amendment.

JULIA MARLOWE.

JULIA MARLOWE TAKEN ILL

Physician Orders Actress to Rest for Several Months.

Toronto, Ont., June 11.—Miss Julia Marlowe, who was to open a week's engagement at the Royal Alexandra theater here with her husband, E. H. Sothorn, was taken seriously ill at the Queen's hotel. Dr. McKeown was summoned and ordered Miss Marlowe to take a complete rest for several months if she wished to save her life. Her part in the "Taming of the Shrew" was taken by her understudy. The company will disband at the conclusion of the engagement Wednesday night and she will proceed to her summer home.

WILL APPEAL DIRECT TO EACH DELEGATE

Campaign Managers to Make Personal Canvass.

Chicago, June 11.—The stage setting for the Republican national convention was completed with the opening of La Follette and Cummins' headquarters. The Iowa senator's headquarters was established in the same hotel that houses Taft and Roosevelt headquarters. Alfred T. Rogers, national committeeman from Wisconsin, is half a block from the others.

The managers of the several headquarters, together with their advisers and assistants, completed plans for the reception of delegates. Special committees to handle the delegates have been named and will be on duty from this time until the close of the convention.

A direct appeal will be made to each individual delegate by the campaign manager of each candidate for the nomination, despite instructions and pledges.

No possible vote in the convention will be overlooked and any indication among delegates of shifting sentiment will precipitate a lively scramble among managers.

A number of prominent Roosevelt leaders took occasion to declare that reports of a possible bolt by the Roosevelt delegates, in case President Taft's friends succeed in nominating Mr. Taft, were without reasonable foundation.

CONGRESS FACES DEADLOCK

House Rejects Senate Amendment Repealing Reciprocity Bill.

Washington, June 11.—The house voted, 144 to 101, not to accept the senate amendment to the metal tariff revision bill, which would repeal the Canadian reciprocity pact and fix a universal duty of $2 a ton on print paper. The house accepted two senate amendments reducing the duty on pig iron and on certain alloys. The bill again will go to conference.

The clash over the Canadian reciprocity pact has served further to complicate the adjournment plans of the house leaders. They contend that the house will not agree to do away with the pact and the senate likewise is expected to insist on its acceptance. Indications are that the two houses are facing a long deadlock.

WOOD HIT BY THE SENATE

Passes Bill Legislating General Out of Office.

Washington, June 11.—The senate, by a vote of 27 to 24, adopted the report of senate and house conferees containing a number of anti-administration provisions on the army appropriation bill. One of these provisions would legislate out of office General Leonard Wood, present chief of staff of the army.

As agreed to, the bill would require army officers acting as chief of staff after March 4 next to have at least ten years' service in the line with rank below brigadier.

COLOMBIA AND THE CANAL ZONE

Shall Uncle Sam Pay the Republic For Taking It?

MANN CALLS IT A "HOLDUP."

Representative Fitzgerald Would Refer the Question to The Hague Tribunal. Too Many Different Commissions in the Government Service—Senator Heyburn and the Newspaper Men.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 11.—[Special.]—It will be some time before the government of the United States pays a large sum to the republic of Colombia for taking the canal zone. Enough developed in the discussion of a peace resolution the other day to show that the proposition to pay Colombia anything will meet with determined resistance.

During the discussion of the resolution Fitzgerald offered a proposition which he said might aid in referring to the Hague tribunal the controversy existing between Colombia and the United States.

"Is that part of the scheme to collect $20,000,000 or $30,000,000?" asked Mann of Illinois. "I did not suppose they had my friend Fitzgerald of New York on their staff." Mann also asserted that Colombia was trying to "holdup" the United States.

Sustained by McCall. Fitzgerald went on to say that the action of the United States was "outrageous and indefensible and we ought to make proper reparation."

"I regret," said the polished McCall of Massachusetts, "that the gentleman has seen fit to remind us of our shame. I think we should pay Colombia for the territory of which we despoiled her. It was one of the most dishonorable transactions in the history of this country."

"Both gentlemen," said Mann with some heat, "are trying to get the Colombia claim allowed, and I am against it. A rotter claim never 'came down the pike.'"

"The gentleman is a reactionary," retorted Fitzgerald. But it is evident that any claim for Colombia would have a hard time passing the house for many others agree with Mann.

Too Many Commissions. It has occurred to a great many observers of public affairs that there are a great many different commissions in the government service. Senator Overman of North Carolina has it in mind to find out something about them. He has introduced a resolution which requires a statement of all commissions of every character which have been appointed by the executive departments or by congress, together with the salaries they receive and employees they have on the rolls. Much money has been expended at one time or another on commissions. Some of the "soft snaps" and "sinecures" have been the result of the creation of commissions.

Heyburn's Suggestion. Senator Heyburn of Idaho is not on the best terms with the newspaper men of Washington. In fact, he has criticized the press gallery in no uncomplimentary manner. But the newspaper men recognize that Heyburn is able, honest and a brilliant man. However, he possesses certain notions which prevent him from being a general favorite with the press. When he started to make his annual attack upon the forestry service and policy of the government toward the western states there was an empty press gallery.

"If it were in order," said Heyburn, "I would suggest an absence of a quorum in the press gallery."

One lone member of the gallery heard the remark and reported it to the newspaper men in their retiring room. The result was that they crowded into the gallery, giving Heyburn such a press audience as he had not had for years. Every other senator saw it and grinned appreciation at the newspaper men.

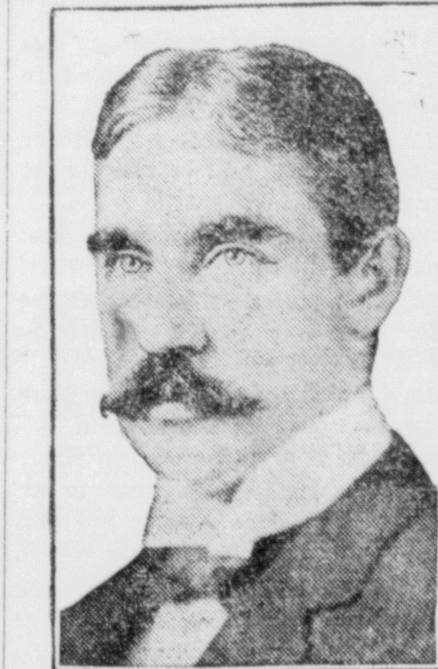

Opinion of a Possibility. One day on the many occasions when the senate was trying to find a way to adjourn before the national conventions Senator Cummins contributed this suggestion: "I think senators should restrain their impatience. I do not believe that the country is demanding that we shall adjourn so that we may attend either the Chicago convention or the Baltimore convention. I think we are commissioned to do a work entirely apart from the work that will be done in either of those great bodies of representatives."

And that was about the time that there was a revival of the talk that Cummins might be a most acceptable "dark horse" at Chicago.

"Claim Everything." Was it not one of the old time politicians who received praise for political wisdom because he issued the mandate "claim everything"? To prove that there is nothing new under the sun every campaign manager this year, and there are many of them, has been following that idea. "Claim everything" has been shown in every circular issued. Every day we are deluged with matter supposed to be for publication, most of which consists of claims of various managers of how their candidates are sure to win. The claims of the different managers would insure half a dozen candidates the nomination—if they were true.

A Gentle Hint. She—What dowers do you think are best for pressing? He—I prefer two lips.—Baltimore American.

OAKLEIGH THORNE.

BLAMES PERKINS FOR TRUST COMPANY RUN

Oakleigh Thorne Testifies in Steel Trust Suit.

New York, June 11.—The blame for the run on the Trust Company of America during the panic of 1907 was credited to stories printed in the New York newspapers upon information obtained from George W. Perkins, according to testimony given at the resumption of hearings in the government suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation.

The testimony was elicited by Judge Dickinson, attorney for the government, in an effort to prove that the run was a part of a plan to "hammer" the stock of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company in the interest of the United States Steel corporation, which took over the Tennessee company during the panic.

It was testified by Oakleigh Thorne, former president of the trust company, that the institution held Tennessee Coal and Iron stock as collateral when the run began. He declared the run directly was due to an article published in the New York Times referring to his institution as a "sore spot" in the financial situation.

His testimony was supplemented by that of Osmund Phillips of the Times staff, who said that he obtained from Mr. Perkins, then a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and a director in the steel corporation, the information on which the article was based.

Mr. Thorne testified that there had been no trouble with his institution up to the time that attention was called to it by the publication of the article.

COLONEL STILL OPTIMISTIC

Says "the Committee Can't Get Away With the Swag."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 11.—"I told Senator Dixon and the other Roosevelt leaders in Chicago that I did not wish them to support any of the contested Roosevelt delegates except where it was such a clear case that they would support them if they were Taft delegates."

Colonel Roosevelt stated his position in regard to the contests before the Republican national committee in these words:

The contest before the committee over the California delegation, Colonel Roosevelt said, could hardly be decided against him, as he believed that the position of the Roosevelt delegates was plainly in the right, since he had carried the state by about 60,000 majority. The national committee, he said, might, of course, rule against the delegates on a technicality.

"But they can't get away with the snag," he added.

LAW'S ARM IS MADE LONGER

Supreme Court Rules Conspiracy Can Be Punished in Any State.

Washington, June 11.—Prosecution of offenders against the federal law was given a tremendous impetus by the supreme court of the United States holding that conspiracy to violate federal laws could be punished in any state where an overt act was done to further that conspiracy.

Justice McKenna laid down the doctrine, which was supported by Chief Justice White and Justices Day, Van Devanter and Pitney. Justice Holmes dissented and with him were Justices Lurton, Hughes and Lamar. Mr. Lamar declared trial should be only where the conspiracy was entered into.

Commerce Court Upheld. Washington, June 11.—The supreme court held that the commerce court had power to enjoin temporarily an affirmative order of the interstate commerce commission in order to review it and therefore sent the Federal Sugar Refining company's lighterage case back to the commerce court for further determination.

Shot and Killed in Quarrel. Marinette, Wis., June 11.—Jacob Kanges was shot and instantly killed in a drunken row at the home of Andrew Lahti at Amasa, Mich., according to advices received here. Lahti was arrested. He claims he fired the shot in self-defense.

Order Sent Out Which May Tie Up All Great Britain Shipping.

London, June 11.—Three hundred thousand transport workers in this island will give up their jobs and all foreign and coastwise shipping will be tied up indefinitely if the union men obey the orders of the general council of the Transport Workers' federation which sent telegrams to every port in England, Scotland and Wales calling for a national strike.

The ship owners decided to reject a compromise which the government has been attempting to arrange.

MAKE LONE HAND PROGRAM

Wisconsin Delegates Will Stick to La Follette.

Milwaukee, June 11.—So far as the delegates from Wisconsin are concerned there will be no support given to Theodore Roosevelt or President Taft by men elected to represent United States Senator Robert M. La Follette in the Republican national convention. Efforts also will be made to hold the delegates from North Dakota to the same line of action.

At a meeting of the so called La Follette steering committee held here it was decided to support the La Follette lone hand program.

At the meeting it was definitely decided to place a La Follette candidate for temporary chairman in the field. This candidate probably will be Governor McGovern of Wisconsin.

Cramps Cause Drowning.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 11.—Blaine Ross, superintendent of schools at Joliette, Pembina county, was drowned, while three companions almost met a similar fate. They were swimming and were taken with cramps, all but Ross being successful in reaching the shore. Ross' parents live in Fargo and his home also is there.

Presence of Warships at Havana Has Good Effect.

INTERVENTION IS UNLIKELY

Secretary Knox Renews Assurance That American Government Is Not Contemplating Taking Charge of Cuban Affairs—Havana Is Tranquil, but Police and Mounted Rurales Are Patrolling the Streets.

Washington, June 11.—The presence of American warships in Havana harbor may be regarded as greatly diminishing the likelihood of intervention in Cuba, according to the construction placed upon that fact by the administration. It is felt that the presence of the two warships will restrain the restless and excitable element of Havana.

Secretary Knox, through Orestes Ferrara, speaker of the Cuban house of representatives, renewed the assurance that intervention is not contemplated.

This was only preliminary, however, for other matters almost as important as the military problem were discussed by the two officials. Although the subject was not broached in conference it generally is understood that the Cuban finances soon must figure again in formal negotiations between the two countries. Under the treaty which governs their relations Cuba is not permitted to negotiate foreign loans beyond her ability to meet and it is for the United States to determine that question. It is understood that at present the total amount of the foreign obligations of Cuba exceed $65,000,000, the interest on which is sufficient to cause a serious strain on the resources of the country.

VERY TRANQUIL IN HAVANA

American Warships Regarded as Deterrent to Disorders.

Havana, June 11.—After the Washington and Rhode Island arrived here Admiral Osterhaus and staff came ashore and proceeded to the American legation to make an official visit to American Minister Arthur M. Beaupre. Later Mr. Beaupre visited the Washington.

The American minister officially notified the Cuban government of the coming of the ships, but did not specify the object of their visit.

Absolute tranquility prevails in Havana. The streets still are guarded by strong detachments of police and mounted rurales. The presence of the American warships is regarded as an effectual deterrent to disorders, as the government is not neglecting any precautions.

BRAINERD HONORED

Brainerd should indeed feel proud for having been selected one of the six cities of Northern Minnesota in which the University of Minnesota will hold a week's Chautauqua conference, June 17th to 22nd inclusive.
University Week, as it is called, is purely an educational matter instituted by President Vincent of the State University and directed by him.
A course is now in progress in southern Minnesota.

For one whole week, morning, noon and night will be used by the university forces to go into closer touch with the people of this state by illustrated lectures and demonstrations given by people of prominence.
A small admission fee will be charged in the evening to help defray the expenses. There will be no profit to anyone. The state has set aside a certain sum of money to be expended in this manner.

Minneapolis Man Receives Chief Honor From the State Association of Letter Carriers

The state convention of letter carriers was held at St. Cloud. There were over fifty delegates representing every city and town in the state where there is a free delivery. At the business session a few minor amendments in the by-laws were made and matters pertaining to postoffice work were thoroughly discussed.

Among the men who gave talks at the session were W. R. Spielman, superintendent of free delivery in Washington, D. C., Carl Egge, of St. Paul, inspector of postoffices in this district, Edward Bainor, vice president of the National association of Letter Carriers, and A. J. McCarthy, a member of the National Sick Benefit board. At the evening banquet Editor Alvah Eastman, of St. Cloud, presided. Rev. G. W. Grannis, of New York City, who is credited with being the original instigator of the Sunday "day off" rule that is being enforced by the postoffice addressed the delegates on Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church.

The officers elected were: President, John H. Bunn, Minneapolis; vice president, W. E. Coe, Winona; treasurer, Julius Nelson, Duluth; secretary, F. M. Traux, St. Paul. Duluth was selected as the next meeting place. Among the local delegates at the convention were Frank Russell, president of the state association during 1911 and W. H. Northrup.

FINISHES WORK TRACK GRADING

John Gillmore Had Contract Cutting and Filling Near Parker & Topping Foundry

FOUR SIDETRACKS TO BE BUILT

To be Half Mile in Length—Work on Track Laying Commenced This Week

John Gillmore, the teaming contractor, has completed his work of cutting and filling near the Parker & Topping foundry and the work done gives room for four sidetracks to the north of the foundry, each being about half a mile in length.

Seven teams were used in executing the contract. The dirt was hauled about 600 feet and a four foot cut was used. Wheel scrapers were employed to cut into the material which was very hard to handle, being partly clay and cinders.

There are on the ground and a crew of men has commenced track laying. The additional trackage to be provided is something which the foundry was urgently in need of.

TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL IN JULY

An Unusually Efficient Corps of Teachers Has Been Secured For the School

MODEL CLASS TO BE FEATURE

E. T. Carroll, of Wadena, is to be the Conductor of the Teachers Training School

Plans have been consummated for the teachers training school, to be held in this city during the month of July. E. T. Carroll, of Wadena, is the conductor and will teach the classes in arithmetic, grammar and civics. Mr. Brown, of Sauk Rapids, is to teach physiology, history and geography. With Miss Beatrice Lindberg, of Fairbault, in primary methods, and Miss Mausur, of Duluth, in home economics.

An unusually efficient corps of teachers has been secured. A model class will be one of the features and it is hoped that parents will be interested in having their little ones in this class. The session for the model class will be one half hour each day, from 10:30 to 11 A. M. Those willing to board the teachers attending the summer school will kindly report to the county superintendent.

SHOPMEN PLAN A GIGANTIC STRIKE

The Federation of Federations Said to be Urging 399,000 Union Men to Tie up Railroads

A MOST RADICAL MOVEMENT

James W. Kline, President of the Federated Shopmen, Said to be the Guiding Spirit

Number of Men Who May be Called Out on Strike
312,000 shop employees, including nine crafts of whom 15,000 are now on strike.
30,000 freight handlers, of whom 8,000 are now on strike.
7,000 stevedores on lakes, several hundred of whom are now on strike.
40,000 members of switchmen's union of North America.
10,000 teamsters engaged in hauling freight.
Total, 399,000.

A dispatch from Chicago to the Minneapolis Journal states that an attempted general strike, which, if consummated, will involve 399,000 union men and completely tie up a number of western railroads is threatened in an announced plan of the Federation of Federations, an amalgamation of nine shop crafts employed by western railroads.

It has been learned that labor leaders were figuring on the most radical movement ever attempted by organized labor.

James W. Kline, president of the federated shopmen, is the guiding spirit in the movement. Under his direction a canvass of the freight handlers, stevedores, switchmen and teamsters has been made and the scouts reported a majority of the workers in these organizations will vote to favor a general strike.

The referendum vote of the shopmen on the question of spreading the present strike against the Harriman lines, in which 15,000 men are out, to all the western railroads, strongly favored the general strike idea, according to reports received from St. Louis headquarters.

It is stated that the union leaders will take no action until the meeting of the shopmen at St. Louis, on June 20. At that time, it is stated, unless the shopmen and freight handlers' strike has been settled, a widespread movement for a general strike will be started.

Locally not much is known about the situation and labor men have not much to say. The result of the referendum vote at the Brainerd shops has not yet been made public in Brainerd.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR

Monday Night, Parade; Tuesday, Auto Ride; Wednesday Evening, Park Lecture

The arrangements committee of the local unions having in charge the preparation of the entertainment for the big convention of the State Federation of Labor which meets in this city June 17, 18 and 19 is rounding things into shape and is meeting with success in its efforts.

The finance committee soliciting funds and which consisted of Mr. Werner T. Hemstead, Judge J. T. Sanborn and H. W. Linnemann has met with a good measure of success and many contributors were received.

The evening events scheduled are first, the big parade of organized labor on Monday evening; then the automobile ride given the delegates on Tuesday evening; concluding with the open air lecture in the park on Wednesday evening. Many delegates and their friends will also take advantage to visit the opera house and hear the lectures being given during "University Week". There will be no end to the entertainment provided the visitors. On Wednesday evening is also band concert night.

The range towns of Crosby, Iron-ton, Cuyuna, Deerwood, Manganese Oreland and Barrows will offer good side trips to the visitors who have

UNIVERSITY WEEK

Arousing Great Interest All Over the State—Great Crowds in Attendance

Last week, "University Week," was held in the southern part of the state, as the program advanced the attendance increased and the interest grew. The St. Paul Pioneer Press commenting on the work says:

"With the conclusions of the 'University's Weeks' in southwestern Minnesota, a unique innovation in education annals has been accomplished and 50,000 citizens in that section of the state have been endowed with the unofficial degrees of the higher education, gained through the tabloid courses conducted for their benefit by experts in nearly all practical sciences. That the whole portion of the state has experienced a modern renaissance, that has turned the topics of the table and hearth to arts and letters, the trend of discussion on the street and in the office to the elements of the sciences as they enter and affect business and business methods. This chautauqua version of advanced education, without a parallel in all history, has placed the university in a different light among the people, that of service to the state and community."

Courses were conducted last week at Fairmont, Jackson, St. James, Windom, Worthington and Laverne, and thousands of people were in attendance. This week courses will be offered in Owatonna, Rochester, Waseca, Plainview, Grand Meadow and Red Wing. During the week of June 17-22, courses will be conducted in Brainerd, Cloquet, Crookston and Grand Rapids. Professor Quigley, the managing director, says that the interest in the northern section of the state promises to be even greater than the weeks of the past. He expects that section of the state to turn out en masse to receive the program.

Jackson writes: "We closed 'University Week' with Home Welfare day and it proved to be a fitting close to the excellent entertainment and instruction. At last night's performance given by the Glee club, the opera house was so crowded that standing room was at a premium." Laverne writes: "University Week" here was largely attended. The last day was art and literature day and a real feast of knowledge was given to the people."

St. James writes: "The closing day was a pronounced success in the way of attendance and interest, and as the work of the week advanced, interest grew and the attendance became large. A very large audience was present at the presentation of the 'Merchant of Venice.'"

At some places from 800 to 1,200 people have turned out to see this play. Pres. Vincent says, "He regards the production of this Shakespearean comedy the best display of historic talent ever made by a university cast." We stated yesterday that the program for Brainerd which included Town and Country day, Farmers' day, Public Health day, Art and Literature day, Home Welfare day and Business Men's day. The program for Farmers' day, which will be next Tuesday, is as follows:

9:30—"Poultry—Care and Management," Mr. N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist extension division, college of agriculture.

10:15—"Our Insect Friends and Foes," Prof. F. L. Wasburn, state entomologist.

11:00—"Marketing Poultry Products," Mr. N. E. Chapman.

2:00—"Potato Growing," Mr. K. A. Kirkpatrick, horticulturist, college of agriculture.

2:45—"Social Possibilities of Rural Communities," Mr. E. M. Phillips, rural school commissioner.

Little Dorothy was having her first experience of riding in a sleeper. She was in a lower berth with her mother, and she asked so many questions that she had to be told to keep quiet.

"Just one more, mamma," coaxed the little miss.

Mountain High Tides.

Sir Robert Ball calculates that in early times our tides were over 600 feet high.

The Cost of Government in Minnesota

How much do the people of Minnesota pay per capita for the support of government, including national, state and local? What part is this sum of their total wealth? Is the burden of taxation in Minnesota increasing faster than population or wealth? If so, is it due to the extension of public industries, or how is it to be explained? For what purposes are the vast amounts of money spent which are raised by taxation and public loans? What is the present outstanding debt of all grades of government in Minnesota, and what is the annual interest charge on such debt? Is current revenue sufficient to meet ordinary expenses, or are some municipalities going constantly deeper into debt in order to pay interest on previous loans and meet running expenses? Especially, how do the several counties, cities and villages compare in these respects with one another and with similar governmental units elsewhere?

In a democratic country, where the final decision in all public matters rests with the people, every intelligent citizen ought to be able to answer these questions; but until very recently, no citizen of Minnesota could hope to find out so much as the aggregate amount of tax which he paid, to say nothing of the purposes for which it was spent or the amount of public debt resting upon him. The first serious attempt to furnish information on this point was made in chapters XXII and XXIII of the report of the Minnesota Tax Commission for 1910. The interest aroused by that report was convincing evidence that it met a real public need.

The Tax Commission has therefore resolved to continue the study of the cost of government in Minnesota in its report for 1912. To that end, the commission has created a Department of Research and Statistics, and has appointed as director of it Professor E. V. Robinson, who has charge of the course in public finance and taxation at the University of Minnesota.

The starting point in any study of the cost of government must be public expenditures. A private citizen regulates his expenditures according to his income, if he means to avoid bankruptcy; but in the case of governments, what is appropriated by the legislature and other spending bodies determines how much must be raised by taxation. Not a few citizens, indeed, denounce high taxes yet constantly urge their representatives in congress and the legislature to support bill after bill calling for increased appropriations. Such persons apparently think it is possible for the government to eat its cake and keep it at the same time. The fact is, however, that the government has no magic fund of wealth at its disposal, but must take from the pockets of the people whatever it determines to spend.

The next article will show where in the present investigation is more extended than the one of 1910, and why this expansion was necessary in order to make plain the character of public expenditures in Minnesota.

Ends Hunt For Rich Girl

Often the hunt for a rich wife ends when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach-bloom complexion and ruby lips result from her pure blood; her bright eyes from restful sleep; her elastic step from firm, free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, backache, headache, fainting and dizzy spells they promote. Everywhere they are woman's favorite remedy. If weak or ailing try them. 50c at all druggists.

At Least He Hesitated.

A group of St. Louis men were discussing a banker in that city who has the reputation of hard bargaining, close fistness and who invariably gets his pound of flesh.

"Oh, well," said a man present who hadn't taken part in the general hammerfest, "he isn't so bad. I went in to see him the other day to get a loan of $10,000, and he treated me very courteously."

"Did he lend you the money?"

"No, he didn't lend it to me, but he hesitated before he refused."—Saturday Evening Post.

New Management.

"What's come over Wombat? I saw him scotching up Penn avenue a little while ago, and he couldn't stop for a word."

"Yes; he's working like a horse these days."

"But he used to be rather lazy. Why the change?"

"He's under a new management. His latest wife needs a lot of expensive things."—Pittsburgh Post.

BRAINERD-ROYALTON GAME

Some Notes of the Big Game at Royalton Last Sunday, June 9

Cook, is the only reason that Royalton had for being on the small end of the score of Sunday's game. At no time were the home bunch dangerous as it was impossible for them to hit when they needed a clout, and thus, was Cook the hero of the fray. Cook was there with the war club swinging it against one of Reed's benders, for a home run, with a man on, which netted two runs to the good, to start with, and that proved enough to win the game.

B. Roderick caught a good game, and was also hitting the leather, getting a hit, walk and last but not least getting hit on the thumb that caused the old timer to retire from the game, but he was ably succeeded by Shorty Long, the sub catcher who did good work while in the game.

Kalland, the man on first, well, we will have to take some of Cook's glory from him, and give to this boy. Seeing Kalland on first made one think of the pranks we read about Hal Chase of the New York Americans cutting up, as he was taking them high and low on any side and in fact any place they happened to be and had a good eye at bat.

I. Roderick, on second, knocked down things that looked like hits when they started, playing a star fielding game but not doing much on the stick end of the job.

Erickson, on short played an errorless game up to the 8th inning and then thought 'twas time to give the kids a chance so booted one, but then the other boys put the clamps on so it didn't do any good. George says he doesn't care much about playing ball any more since he has found a way to work the conductors on the N. P. Ask him about it.

Templeton, on third, something was wrong as Temp. didn't get a hit, but the way he scooped things around third made them sit up and take notice.

Sheffo, in left field, accepted some nice chances without an error, but was off in the hitting.

Callan, in center played a steady game going through the game with out an error, not getting a chance. In the hitting he got a couple of hits, bouncing one over the pitcher's head for a single, and meeting the other on the nose for three bases.

Rogers, in right field, made a couple of errors on some drives to his field but no damage was done. The writer thanks some one ought to hand his name to the Olympic committee as a sprinter as the way he beat out an infield hit wasn't slow. He also redeemed himself for dropping the drives by going over in center and picking off the only chance offered to Callan.

The Brainerd team plays the All Nation team here on Thursday. Everybody get out and see the game.

On next Sunday the game played at Brainerd will decide if Brainerd is to continue to lead the league or give way to Sauk Rapids. This will be one of the best games of the season.

CROSS LAKE

We hear that H. W. Nickerson is quite ill with the mumps.

Wm. Buchte attended the wrestling match at Emily Saturday night.

Dr. J. H. Allen, Frank Gordon, William Lucas and J. M. Stowe attended the agricultural lectures at Pequot on May 31st.

Mr. C. Hillyer, who recently came from Iowa, is living in Neil McKay's house on section 10. Mr. Hillyer went to Brainerd last week.

Ex-Gov. Van Sant yelled at us last Wednesday from an auto, asking for Hod Kimball, who they said could direct him to Brainerd. Mr. Van Sant is not carrying as much avoirdupois matter as he did while in the executive chair.

The "light fantastic" was exhibited under canvas at the dam Saturday night.

Frank Gordon commenced assessing last week. This year those having money are assessed, for a wonder, and in order to coax them to own up, they are required to pay but three mills on a dollar, while those who have real estate and personal property are assessed between thirty and forty mills. Comment is unnecessary, and swearwords excusable.

Headquarters was nearly wiped off the map last Friday. Alvin Eastman and family, who have lived there for the past four years, in the employ of the Cross Lake Lumber Co., found about eight o'clock that their house was on fire. A few pieces of furniture and a few clothes were the only things saved. An empty house standing near also was burned. They are now staying in the warehouse.

Grandma Mudge is with J. H. Allen for a time. They are uncertain just now what they will do.

His Experience.

"You cannot eat your cake and have it," said the wise man, sitting back in his chair and twirling his glasses as though that closed the argument.

"Very true," replied the younger man who refused to be crushed, but who spoke as one who knew whereof he twiddled, "but I can eat my cake and have dyspepsia."

Its Claim.

"I guess it was the cradle."—Baltimore American.

BIBLE PURGATORY

EXISTS IN THIS LIFE.

"Saved So as by Fire" Is Not Literal Fire.

Pastor Russell Points Out That Dante's Picture of Purgatory Has Little Foundation in Bible—Thinks Many Have Been Under Kind of Hoodoo.

(PASTOR RUSSELL)

Kansas City, Mo., June 9.—Pastor Russell spoke twice here today. We quote his discourse from the text, "Saved so as by fire" (I Corinthians III, 15). He said in part:—

The Catholic thought of Purgatory has been opposed by Protestants upon the plea that Purgatory is not mentioned in the Bible. Let us admit that no such Purgatory as Dante pictured has any volume of foundation. Let us admit that not all that Catholics have claimed respecting Purgatory is either Scriptural or logical.

But let us admit also that there are Scriptures (of which our text is one) which tell of a salvation by "fire" that evidently is not the salvation in which the "elect" of God will participate as "more than conquerors" through obedient following in the footsteps of Jesus their Redeemer. Indeed, our text is the principal one used by our Catholic brethren in support of their Purgatory.

Purgatory in Our Text.

But if the Pastor did not agree with the Protestants that there is no Purgatory taught in the Bible, neither did he agree with the Catholics respecting the kind of a Purgatory, for he proceeded to show that his text referred, not to a place of suffering, a purgation that existed in the Apostle's day, but that the Apostle was here speaking prophetically, of the end of this Gospel Age—foretelling a purgatorial condition at that time—not after men have died, nor in another world, but in the present life, and on this earth.

Indeed, said Pastor Russell, not only is the fire of this text symbolical of trouble, but the same is true of nearly all that is said about fire in the Bible. There is a process of destruction, consumption. God's righteousness is spoken of as a consuming fire which burns against all sin and unrighteousness.

The context shows that the Apostle is discussing the Church in her earthly estate; that some of the brethren would not at the time appreciate the difference between "the gold, silver and precious stones" of the Divine promises and the cheaper materials—likened them to "wood, hay and stubble;" but that a day would come in the end of the Age when the Lord would specially test His people and when the tests would be severe and crucial like fire. In that day wood, hay and stubble would be consumed; but the gold, silver and precious stone characteristics of the true faith and proper character-building would remain. We are not to understand him to mean that doctrines are all-important, but rather that they are reflected in the character-development of the individual who without them would be unable to stand in the testings that would surely come in the close of this Age.

The Apostle points out, however, that all who build their faith on Christ will eventually be saved, no matter how much error they may get into—even though their entire faith structure be wrong and will be consumed in the foretold fiery trial. All who build faith on Him, in full accord with the Divine Revelation, obediently, will become joint-heirs with the Redeemer in His Kingdom, while those who build their faith on Him, and maintain it even through error, will be eventually saved, though to a lower salvation. Theirs will be a purgatorial experience—purifying, sanctifying, fitting them for an inferior blessing on the spirit plane, serving before the throne instead of in the throne.

Living in Time Mentioned in Text.

Apparently we are now living in the very time mentioned in our text. Many of God's people under the fiery trials of "higher criticism" and "science falsely so called" experienced a loss of all the faith they possessed, because they possessed only the wood, hay and stubble of human tradition, and not the gold, silver and precious jewels of the Divine Revelation.

Indeed, according to prophecy, we see that the time is fast approaching when God will have a further reckoning with the Gentiles and especially with the portion called Christendom. Richly favored, the responsibilities have been proportionate. The squaring of that account means "a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."

But it will not be in another world nor in another life nor eternal in duration. Instead, God will merely purify the race, in selfishness of heart rejecting His counsels, to wreck present civilization to such an extent that, unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved. But on account of the elect those days will be shortened, by the establishment of God's Kingdom, to restrain evil, to enlighten the world and to assist the willing and obedient back into the image and likeness of God.

BRIDGE OF THE SEAS.

The Isthmus From Which Every Other Isthmus Has Been Named.

The "Bridge of the Seas" is the striking name which Pladar gives to the narrow isthmus which connects the gulf of Corinth with the Aegean sea. It is one of the most interesting strips of soil on the five continents. It is the isthmus par excellence of all the world, for from its Greek name, Isthmia, every other isthmus has been named.

The ancients were not good sailors. They never went by sea where they could conveniently go by land, and to cross this narrow neck of land, only four miles wide, saved them many a weary league of sailing around a stormy coast in going from the Peloponnesus to Attica and indeed from Europe to Asia.

The southeastern point of Attica was especially dangerous, and an old proverb used to run, "When you are round Cape Malla forget all you have at home." Indeed, navigation in these seas was almost wholly abandoned in the winter months, and we remember that in the graphic account of St. Paul's shipwreck he advised the captain to winter in the Cretan harbor of Fair Havens. Through disregarding this advice disaster came to ship and crew and prisoners alike.

No wonder, then, that the isthmus, which the ancient city of Corinth dominated, became at one time the busiest and perhaps the most notable strip of land which the world knew. More battles have been fought, more dynasties established or dethroned, just here in all probability than in any other spot on the earth's surface.—Christian Herald.

BIG SURPRISE TO MANY

IN BRAINERD

Local people are surprised at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, the German appendicitis remedy. Johnson's Pharmacy states that this simple remedy antiseptizes the digestive system and draws off the impurities so thoroughly that a SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY.

YOU CANNOT JOCKEY A HORSE

with poor feed. He knows its quality as well if not better than you do. Give him some of our feed and grain and see how he will go into it. See him pick up in condition, too, after you have fed him with it a few days. Good feeding pays, and the use of our feed and grain will prove it.
